DIRECT AND INDIRECT SPEECH

www.khanacademy.com

Rules for Changing Direct into Indirect Speech

Rule 1: Change of Pronouns

The pronouns in direct speech are adjusted to match the speaker's and listener's perspective in indirect speech.

Direct Speech	Indirect Speech
She said, "I love my job."	She said that she loved her job.

Rule 2: Backshift of Tenses

When the reporting verb is in the past tense, the tense of the original statement usually shifts one step back. If the reporting verb is in the present tense, no change is made.

Tense	Direct Speech	Tense Change	Indirect Speech
Present Simple	I like ice cream.	→ Past Simple	She said that she liked ice cream.
Present Continuous	I am reading a book.	→ Past Continuous	He said that he was reading a book.
Present Perfect	I have seen that movie.	→ Past Perfect	She said that she had seen that movie.
Past Simple	I went to the park.	→ Past Perfect	He said that he had gone to the park.
Past Continuous	I was sleeping.	→ Past Perfect Continuous	She said that she had been sleeping.

Rule 3: Change of Modal Verbs

Some modal verbs shift in indirect speech, while others remain unchanged.

Will → Would	I will finish the project.	He said that he would finish the project.
Can → Could	I can solve this problem.	She said that she could solve the problem.
May → Might	I may come tomorrow.	He said that he might come the next day.
Must → Had to	I must leave now.	She said that she had to leave then.
Shall → Should	I shall help you.	He said that he should help me.

Rules for Changing Direct into Indirect Speech

Rule 4: Changes in Time and Place References

When reporting speech, words that indicate time and place often change:

Change	Direct Speech	Indirect Speech
Today → That day	"I will finish it today," he said.	He said that he would finish it that day.
Tomorrow → The next, following day	"I have a meeting tomorrow," she said.	She said that she had a meeting the next day.
Yesterday → The day before	"I called him yesterday," he said.	He said that he had called him the day before.
Now → Then, Here → There	"I am coming here now," she said.	She said that she was coming there then.

Rule 5: Reporting Questions

Questions are changed depending on whether they are yes/no or wh-questions.

Type	Change	Direct Speech	Indirect Speech
Yes/No Question	Use if, whether for yes/no questions	"Do you like coffee?" he asked.	He asked if I liked coffee.
Yes/No Question	Use if, whether	"Are they coming?" she asked.	She asked whether they were coming.
Wh-Question	Keep the question word	"Where do you live?" he asked.	He asked where I lived.
Wh-Question	Keep the question word	"What time is it?" she asked.	She asked what time it was.

Rule 6: Commands and Requests

When reporting commands or requests, use to + base verb. If it is a negative command, use not + infinitive.

Notes	Change	Direct Speech	Indirect Speech
Polite request →	use "to + verb"	"Please close the door," he said.	He asked me to close the door.
Negative command →	use "to + verb"	"Don't be late," she said.	She told me not to be late.
